ORGANISATION PROFILE

The Kumasi Institute of Tropical Agriculture (KITA) is a private, non-profit agricultural college founded in 1984, located between Domeabra and Apromase in the Ejisu District of Ghana's Ashanti Region. Fully accredited by the Commission for Technical and Vocational Education and Training (CTVET), the institution offers Higher National Diplomas (HND), certificates and short courses in General Agriculture, Agribusiness, Horticulture, and Animal Husbandry. KITA operates a dual structure, where its College of Tropical Agriculture (COTA) manages formal academic tracks, while its NGO branch conducts rural extension, sustainable agroforestry and Agribusiness Innovations Incubation, technical training for youth, farmers, and international organisations.

BRIEF TESTAMENT ON AGRIMOCKS IMPORTANCE

AGRIMOCKS is more than a project; it's a rehearsal for the future. By giving young people the chance to practice leadership, problem-solving, and collaboration in a safe, creative environment (virtual simulation), it allows them to gain practical experience in project development, civic participation, business and entrepreneurship. It's valuable because it will transform education into action, and bridge the skills gap, strengthen career pathways and foster intercultural dialogue.
